Executive Summary

Here is a 2-3 paragraph executive summary of the provided JSON data:

The resume skills listed are highly relevant to backend cloud jobs, with AWS, CloudWatch, and IAM being among the top requested skills. The most in-demand job tracks for backend cloud engineers are backend_cloud (64 jobs), platform_engineering (32 jobs), and data_engineering (9 jobs). The average fit score by track shows that backend_cloud and data_engineering have a high average fit score of 55.4% and 57.9%, respectively, indicating strong relevance to the job requirements.

The top missing skills are AI, Security, Observability, LLM, CI/CD, RAG, dbt, Data Engineering, Terraform, Airflow, DevSecOps, Kafka, REST APIs, which suggests that these areas require further development or training to increase chances of landing a backend cloud job. The study recommendation highlights the importance of studying backend_cloud and data_engineering specialization candidates with high demand and moderate fit.

The per_source_summary provides insights into the number of jobs posted for each source (adzuna: 109, arbeitnow: 45, remote: 16) and their average fit scores. The top track for each source is also provided, indicating that backend_cloud is consistently in demand across all sources.
